A pastor’s son born in 1853 in the town of Groot – Zundert, the Netherlands, Vincent van Gogh’s main tool of expression was color. The extremely emotional Vincent grew up in a religious environment and during his entire life the gifted artist suffered from low self esteem.

Van Gogh decided to become a painter between 1860 and 1880 after he had experienced two tragic romances and unsuccessful jobs as an art salesman, bookshop clerk and preacher.

After being dismissed as preacher in a Belgian mining region he decided to stay in the country to study art, convinced that creating beauty was the key to happiness. Vincent’s early Dutch period’s creations are sharply lit, somber-toned genre works of which “The Potato Eaters” (1885) is the most renowned.

In 1885 Vincent moved to Antwerp. It was in this city where Vincent van Gogh discovered the paintings of Peter Paul Rubens and purchased an extensive collection of Japanese prints. One year later Vincent travelled to Paris where he joined Théo, his brother and manager of Goupil’s (pronounced “Goo-pil’s”) gallery.

During his stay in Paris Vincent studied with Cormon and inevitably met Gauguin (pronounced “Go-gan”), Monet (pronounced “Mo-nay”) and Pissarro. He started to lighten his extremely dark palette and began painting using the impressionists’ short brushstrokes.
Van Gogh’s nervousness and lack of confidence made him an extremely difficult companion and around-the-clock discussions combined with creating art during the day seriously damaged his health. Vincent decided to go to Arles (pronounced “Arl”) in southern France hoping his companions would follow his footsteps and help him to establish an art school. Paul Gauguin did join Vincent but the result was disastrous.

During an epileptic\(^1\) haze, Vincent pursued his companion armed with a razor blade. Gauguin managed to stop him but he ended up removing a part of his ear lobe with the sharp blade. Since this weird event Vincent’s mental states began to alternate between lucidity\(^2\) and madness. He was admitted to the Saint-Remy (pronounced “San-Remmy”) asylum\(^3\) for treatment.

In 1890 by May, Van Gogh’s health seemed to have improved and under Dr. Gachet’s (pronounced “Gă-shay’s”) supervision, he went to stay in Auvers-sur-Oise (pronounced “Owe-vair-soor-wahz”). Two months later Vincent van Gogh committed suicide by shooting himself. He had sold only one painting during his short career!

The inimitable\(^4\) fusion\(^5\) of content and form invented by Van Gogh is emotional, powerful, lyrically rhythmic\(^6\), dramatic and imaginative. The Dutch painter’s works were heavily influenced by his effort explaining either the struggle against insanity or trying to comprehend man and nature’s spiritual essence.

1. Epileptic (adjective): pertaining to or symptomatic of epilepsy, a disorder of the nervous system resulting in seizures
2. Lucidity (noun): the ability to see things clearly; rationality; sanity
3. Asylum (noun): an institution for the maintenance and care of the mentally ill, orphans, or other persons requiring specialized assistance
4. Inimitable (adjective): incapable of being copied or imitated; matchless
5. Fusion (noun): the state of being blended together
6. Lyrically rhythmic (adverb + adjective): having the form, beat, and musical quality of a song or poem

Vincent (Starry Starry Night)
by Don McLean

Starry, starry night
Paint your palette\(^1\) blue and gray
Look out on a summer’s day
With eyes that know the darkness in my soul
Shadows on the hills
Sketch the trees and the daffodils
Catch the breeze and the winter chills
In colors on the snowy linen\(^2\) land

Now I understand what you tried to say to me
And how you suffered for your sanity
And how you tried to set them free
They would not listen, they did not know how
Perhaps they'll listen now

Starry, starry night
Flaming flowers that brightly blaze
Swirling clouds in violet haze
Reflect in Vincent's eyes of China blue
Colors changing hue\(^3\)
Morning fields of amber grain
Weathered faces lined in pain
Are soothed beneath the artist's loving hand

Now I understand what you tried to say to me
And how you suffered for your sanity
And how you tried to set them free
They would not listen, they did not know how
Perhaps they never will

---

1 Palette (noun): a thin and usually oval or oblong board or tablet with a thumb hole at one end, used by painters for holding and mixing colors.
2 Linen (noun): fabric woven from flax yarns
3 Hue (noun): a gradation or variety of a color; tint

Title of Poem: “The Starry Night” by Anne Sexton

TITLE: Consider the title and make a prediction about what the poem is about.

PARAPHRASE: Translate the poem line by line into your own words on a literal level. Look for complete thoughts (sentences may be turned around) and look up unfamiliar words.

CONNOTATION: Examine the poem for meaning beyond the literal. Look for figurative language, imagery, and sound elements.
ATTITUDE/TONE: Notice the speaker’s tone and attitude. Humor? Sarcasm? Awe?

SHIFTS: Note any shifts or changes in speaker or attitude. Look for key words, time change, punctuation.

TITLE: Examine the title again, this time on an interpretive level.

THEME: Briefly state in your own words what the poem is about (subject), then what the poet is saying about the subject (theme).
The Starry Night
By Anne Sexton

1 The town does not exist
2 except where one black-haired tree slips
3 up like a drowned woman into the hot sky.
4 The town is silent. The night boils with eleven stars.
5 Oh starry starry night! This is how
6 I want to die.

7 It moves. They are all alive.
8 Even the moon bulges in its orange irons
9 to push children, like a god, from its eye.
10 The old unseen serpent swallows up the stars.
11 Oh starry starry night! This is how
12 I want to die:

13 into that rushing beast of the night,
14 sucked up by that great dragon, to split
15 from my life with no flag,
16 no belly,
17 no cry.

September’s Song, a Poem in Seven Days by Lucille Clifton

TUESDAY 9/11/01

1  thunder and lightning and our world
2  is another place no day
3  will ever be the same no blood
4  untouched

5  they know this storm in otherwheres
6  israel ireland palestine
7  but God has blessed America
8  we sing

9  and God has blessed America
10  to learn that no one is exempt
11  the world is one all fear
12  is one all life all death
13  all one
Vermeer by Stephen Mitchell

1  Quia respexit humilitatem ancillae suae. Luke 1:48
2
3 She stands by the table, poised
4 at the center of your vision,
5 with her left hand
6 just barely on
7 the pitcher's handle, and her right
8 lightly touching the windowframe.
9 Sere as a clear sky, luminous
10 in her blue dress and many-toned
11 white cotton wimple, she is looking
12 nowhere. Upon her lips
13 is the subtlest and most lovely
14 of smiles, caught
15 for an instant
16 like a snowflake in a warm hand.
17 How weightless her body feels
18 as she stands, absorbed, within this
19 fulfillment that has brought more
20 than any harbinger could.
21 She looks down with an infinite

1 Latin, from the Bible’s New Testament: “For he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden ....”
2 Poised (verb): to be balanced
3 Pitcher (noun): a container, usually with a handle and spout or lip, for holding and pouring liquids
4 Sere (adjective): dry
5 Luminous (adjective): radiating or reflecting light
6 Wimple (noun): a woman’s headcloth drawn in folds about the chin
7 Harbinger (noun): anything that foreshadows a future event
Nighthawks by Samuel Yellen

1 The place is the corner of Empty and Bleak\(^1\),
2 The time is night’s most desolate\(^2\) hour,
3 The scene is Al’s Coffee Cup or the Hamburger Tower,
4 The persons in this drama do not speak.

5 We who peer through that curve of plate glass
6 Count three nighthawks seated there – patrons\(^3\) of life.
7 The counterman will be with you in a jiff\(^4\).
8 The thick white mugs were never meant for demitasse\(^5\).

9 The single man whose hunched back we see
10 Once put a gun to his head in Russian Bank,
11 Whirled the chamber, pulled the trigger, drew a blank,
12 And now lives out his x years guarantee.

13 And facing us, the two central characters
14 Have finished their coffee, and have lit
15 A contemplative\(^6\) cigarette,
16 His hand lies close but not touching hers.

17 Not long ago together in a darkened room,
18 Mouth burned mouth, flesh beat and ground

(Poem continues on next page)

\(^1\) Bleak (adjective): without hope or encouragement
\(^2\) Desolate (adjective): having the feeling of being abandoned by friends or by hope
\(^3\) Patrons (noun): customers
\(^4\) Jiff, jiffy (noun): a very short time; moment
\(^5\) Demitasse (noun): a small cup of strong coffee usually served after dinner
\(^6\) Contemplative (adjective): thoughtful; reflective; meditative
On ravaged flesh, and yet they found
No local habitation and no name.

Oh, are we not lucky to be none of these!
We can look on with complacent eye:
Our satisfactions satisfy,
Our pleasures, our pleasures please.

7 Habitation (noun): a place of residence
8 Complacent (adjective): pleased, especially with one’s self or situation, often without awareness
Girl Powdering Her Neck by Cathy Song

1 The light is the inside
2 sheen\(^1\) of an oyster shell,
3 sponged with talc\(^2\) and vapor,
4 moisture from a bath.

5 A pair of slippers
6 are placed outside
7 the rice-paper doors.
8 She kneels at a low table
9 in the room,
10 her legs folded beneath her
11 as she sits on a buckwheat pillow.

12 Her hair is black
13 with hints of red,
14 the color of seaweed
15 spread over rocks.

16 Morning begins the ritual
17 wheel of the body,
18 the application of translucent\(^3\) skins.
19 She practices pleasure:
20 the pressure of three fingertips
21 applying powder.
22 Fingerprints of pollen
23 some other hand will trace.

24 The peach-dyed kimono\(^4\)
25 patterned with maple leaves
26 drifting across the silk,
27 falls from right to left
28 in a diagonal, revealing
29 the nape of her neck
30 and the curve of a shoulder
31 like the slope of a hill
32 set deep in snow in a country
33 of huge white solemn\(^5\) birds.
34 Her face appears in the mirror,
35 a reflection in a winter pond,
36 rising to meet itself.

37 She dips a corner of her sleeve
38 like a brush into water
39 to wipe the mirror;
40 she is about to paint herself.
41 The eyes narrow
42 in a moment of self-scrutiny.
43 The mouth parts
44 as if desiring to disturb
45 the placid\(^6\) plum face;
46 break the symmetry\(^7\) of silence.
47 But the berry-stained lips,
48 stenciled into the mask of beauty,
49 do not speak.

Group Poster Assignment

Directions: Your groups will create a poster that presents your findings on both the painting and the poem that you analyzed. You must include the following elements:

Painting (worth up to 25 points)
- Title and artist—5 points
- Picture (cut out from Resource 2.2A-D and attach to poster)—5 points
- Brief descriptions of the plot, character(s), setting, and theme—15 points

Poem (worth up to 25 points)
- Title and author—5 points
- Poem text (may be handwritten, typed, or cut out from Resource 2.4A-D)—5 points
- Examples from the text of figurative language, imagery, sound elements, etc. that add connotative meaning—15 points
- The theme—10 points

Comparison/Contrast (worth up to 15 points)
- Include a paragraph that compares and contrasts the painting and the poem. What do they have in common? How are they different?

Scoring (total poster worth up to 85 points)

Your group will be scored on content (are all the elements present and thoroughly addressed?—see points possible above), neatness/legibility (worth up to 10 points), and creativity (both in thought and presentation—worth up to 10 points).

Look at the example of a poster based on Vincent van Gogh’s painting, “Starry Night” and Anne Sexton’s poem, “The Starry Night” on the back of this page.
“Starry Night” by Vincent van Gogh

Description of the Artwork:
This painting depicts a small European town at night. No one is outside – they might all be asleep inside their homes. The stars, sky, moon, and tree are alive and moving with some great force. This scene seems to represent the theme that human beings are small and insignificant compared to the vastness of the universe.

The speaker personifies the tree in lines 2-3—“one black-haired tree slips / up like a drowned woman into the hot sky”—to represent herself as someone who is perched on the edge of life and death. This idea is supported by the juxtaposition of “The town is silent” followed by “The night boils with eleven stars” (line 4) and “It moves. They are all alive” (line 7). There are religious similes and metaphors as well, such as “the moon bulges in its orange irons / to push children, like a god, from its eye” (lines 9-10), which suggests that life is being rejected; and references are made to the devil—“The old unseen serpent” (line 10) and “that great dragon” (line 14)—that further signal the imminence of death. Metaphors continue with the lines “to split / from my life with no flag, / no belly, / no cry” (lines 14-17) that symbolize the quickness of death with no time to slow down or surrender (white flag, perhaps?), take a meal (or show weakness?), or even to mourn the loss of life.

Theme:
The poem is about facing death. The poet is saying that even though death may seem cruel and sudden, it is better to accept it bravely, and even embrace it as a force as strong as life.

Comparison/Contrast:
There are many similarities between van Gogh’s painting and Sexton’s poem. For example, the movement of the large black tree and elements of the sky is evident both visually and textually. In the painting, the brushstrokes are short and swirled, which suggest movement; in the poem, Sexton writes “It moves. They are all alive” (line 7). On the other hand, while the painting may represent specific emotions of the artist himself, the poem expresses emotions inspired by the painting. The speaker draws meaning from the visual elements and interprets them from her own perspective.
Process Journal: Lesson 2

During the Gallery Walk, respond to each of the paintings that you have not yet analyzed, and use the following guiding questions to make notes:

- Look at the picture for a few minutes.
- Write about the picture. Consider these questions:
  - What is going on in this picture?
  - What do you see that makes you think that?
  - What else can you find?

After the Gallery Walk discussion, respond to the following essential question:

How do art and poetry help us recognize themes in our own lives?
Three Step Interview

Essential Question: How do art and poetry help us recognize themes in our own lives?

Three Step Interview

1. Step One – Student A asks Student B the essential question. Student B responds. Student A must listen carefully because s/he will have to repeat it to the table group. (Student C is also interviewing Student D in the same manner.)

2. Step Two – Student B now asks Student A the essential question. Student A responds. Student B must listen carefully because s/he will have to repeat it to the table group. (Student D is also interviewing Student C in the same manner.)

3. Step Three – Each person shares his/her partner’s answer to the essential question with their group members. (All four students – A, B, C, D – are sharing together.)

Excerpts from Notes on Ekphrasis (2008) by Alfred Corn

Ekphrasis (also spelled "ecphrasis") is a direct transcription from the Greek ek, "out of," and phrasis, "speech" or "expression." It's often been translated simply as "description," and seems originally to have been used as a rhetorical term designating a passage in prose or poetry that describes something. More narrowly, it could designate a passage providing a short speech attributed to a mute work of visual art. In recent decades, the use of the term has been limited, first, to visual description and then even more specifically to the description of a real or imagined work of visual art.

Some ekphrastic poems describe photographs, and these may be art photographs or else ordinary snapshots, the latter often depicting members of the poet's family. A disadvantage of using family snapshots is that the original image may not embody sufficient artistry to provide the stuff of interesting commentary; nor is that image available to the reader for comparison with the text. Enormous skill is needed in order to convey visual information of this kind, along with the passions and emotional nuances that pictures from childhood arouse in the author. So there is a risk that only a small part of the authors' feelings will actually be accessible to the reader through the intermediary of words alone. Still, some poets have had success writing this kind of poem, for example, Adrienne Rich in "Snapshots of a Daughter-in-Law" and Greg Williamson's "Double Exposures."

Perhaps the most effective contemporary poems dealing with visual art are those where the authors include themselves in the poem, recounting the background circumstances that led to a viewing of the painting or sculpture in question; or what memories or associations or emotions it stirs in them; or how they might wish the work to be different from what it is. The center of attention in this kind of poem isn't solely the pre-existing work but instead is dual, sharing the autobiographical focus found in the majority of contemporary lyric poems written in English.

Poems like these unite ekphrasis with the autobiographical tradition, which is equally ancient and probably more important than ekphrasis alone. After all, the autobiographical tradition can cite figures such as Ovid, Dante, Ben Jonson, Donne, George Herbert, Pope, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Keats, Whitman, Dickinson, Eliot, Akhmatova, Williams, Crane, Lowell, Roethke, Bishop, Berryman, Larkin, Walcott, Merrill, Adrienne Rich, and Seamus Heaney. Of course you can argue that an ekphrastic poem providing no information at all about the author may still convey autobiographical content indirectly, in the form of "voice," tone, level of diction, and the kind and frequency of judgments made in the course of presentation. In "Archaic Torso of Apollo," Rilke gives us no precise autobiographical facts about himself; nevertheless, we get a strong sense of the author's character and prospects from his presentation of the subject, in particular, when he imagines the torso saying to him, "You must change your life."

Meanwhile, more directly autobiographical ekphrastic poems, like Lowell's "For the Union Dead," Bishop's "Poem," John Ashbery's "Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror," Charles Wright's "Homage to Claude Lorraine," or the present author's "Seeing All the Vermeers," locate the act of viewing visual art in a particular place and time, giving it a personal and perhaps even an historical context. The result is then not merely a verbal "photocopy" of the original painting, sculpture, or photograph, but instead a grounded instance of seeing, shaped by forces outside the artwork. In such poems, description of the original work remains partial, but authors add to it aspects drawn from their own experience—the facts, reflections, and feelings that arise at the confluence of a work of visual art and the life of the poet.

Text Dependent Questions for
Excerpts from Notes on Ekphrasis (2008) by Alfred Corn

Answer the following questions citing evidence from the text.

1. What has the term ekphrasis been used to describe in recent decades?

2. What are two disadvantages of using family photographs as the subject of ekphrastic poetry? What is required for this to be successful?

3. According to Corn’s “Notes on Ekphrasis,” what are the three conditions that authors must meet for contemporary autobiographical poems to be most effective?

4. How can an ekphrastic poem that provides no information at all about the author still convey autobiographical content?
5. Consider Anne Sexton’s poem, “The Starry Night” (Resource 1.9 from Lesson 1). Using examples from Alfred Corn’s text to support your reasons, explain how the poem could be an example of autobiographical ekphrasis.

Perspectives in Writing Ekphrastic Poetry

As you begin to write your ekphrastic poems, consider the following approaches:

• Write about the scene or subject being depicted in the artwork.
• Write in the voice of a person or object shown in the work of art.
• Write about your experience of looking at the art.
• Relate the work of art to something else it reminds you of.
• Imagine what was happening while the artist was creating the piece.
• Write in the voice of the artist.
• Write a dialogue among characters in a work of art.
• Speak directly to the artist or the subject(s) of the piece.
• Write in the voice of an object or person portrayed in the artwork.
• Imagine a story behind what you see depicted in the piece.
• Speculate about why the artist created this work.

Comparison Essay

You will use your unit materials as a reference to draft an essay that compares your chosen work of art to the poem you wrote about it. Remember that throughout the unit we have been examining three essential questions. Your essay should address these questions:

- How do art and poetry reflect the artist’s and poet’s inner experience?
- What do art and poetry have in common? How are they different?
- How do art and poetry help us recognize themes in our own lives?

- While planning your essay, think about how you will make the transition to writing about what you observed in the work of art, citing evidence from the piece. What does the visual art emphasize?
- How will you transition to writing about the creation of the poem? How will you describe how you used the visual art to shape your poem? Whose point of view is portrayed in the poem? What poetic devices are used?
- As you conclude your essay, you should write about how you transformed your understanding of the work of art into a poem. What did you learn about how to analyze art and poetry? What did you learn about how the two artistic forms express universal themes?

Your essay will be scored using the SAUSD High School Writing Assessment Scoring Guide (see Resource 3.10). Be sure to refer to this guide while planning your essay.

Process Journal: Lesson 3

Gallery Walk: Look closely at the artwork and read the poetry and essays on display, then record your impressions.

- What do you notice about the art pieces chosen?
- How do the Ekphrastic poems relate to the art that inspired them?
- What new insights do you get from reading the essays?
- Can you relate to the themes represented? How?
