SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

Superintendent took the opportunity to acknowledge the wonderful SAUSD moms as part of Mother's Day. He expressed his gratitude for all the mothers who help in our schools and who also create a supportive learning environment at home for our students. Mr. Almendarez announced that the month of May is designated as the recognition month for several school employee groups. Last week was teacher and certificated support staff appreciation week. He thanked all teachers who continue to show up daily to educate our students despite the unprecedented challenges we continue to see. Our teachers ensure at the ground level that our students receive both academic and social-emotional support. Teaching is not only a career for our educators, but they show time, and time again that it is also their passion. He also thanked other certificated support staff, who offer other invaluable services such as counseling, speech and language services, administrative leadership, and play many other vital roles and added that last week was also Principal's Recognition Day. Principals work countless hours often filling in across various roles at their schools. They guide our teachers and staff, creating productive learning environments for our children. Whether they lead an elementary, middle, or high school, our principals often serve as ambassadors for our communities.

Superintendent also announced that this week is National School Nurses Week. The role of our school nurses has never been as prominent as it has been the last two years during this pandemic. SAUSD school nurses and licensed vocational nurses (LVNs) serve as a frontline safety net for the most vulnerable students, many of whom may not have access to health care. School nurses and LVNs identify vision, hearing, and other health issues in students that often impede school performance. Mr. Almendarez shared that SAUSD is also observing National Police Week from May 11 to May 17. He recognized Santa Ana School Police officers for their work to keep our students, staff, and community safe. Additionally, officers work in partnership with schools to support awareness campaigns targeting drug and alcohol, bullying and cyberbullying, and vaping prevention. School police contribute to safe and nurturing learning environments at our campuses. He continued by announcing that next week is also Classified School Employee Week.

Over the last two years of this pandemic, classified employees have served as essential workers across the community. They have ensured our students receive nutritious meals every day, kept our campuses and other district sites healthy and safe, supported instruction by assisting in providing technology, supporting teachers in classrooms, and helping schools connect with the community.

Finally, Superintendent thanked all school employee groups for everything they do to keep schools open, to support learning, and to help meet the diverse needs of the SAUSD community. He encouraged everyone to reach out to any school employee this month to offer gratitude for their ongoing commitment to education.

Public speakers addressed Roosevelt Walker Crowding & Engage 360 Program, GRIP, Orange County Leadership Camp at UC Santa Barbara, lack of ADA accessibility and lack of academic support at MacArthur Fundamental Intermediate School.
