What does it mean to be CEO ?

Our chief Executive officer Sergio Garcia shares some thoughts on his role as the company leader

Sergio Garcia
CEO of PowerCloud

Being CEO doesn't only mean being in charge of everyone and everything, it means understanding people to try building a relationship with all employees. I must be helpful; thinking out of the box to make people's

"I am a friend first, and a boss second. And that's what important in the workplace."

jobs easier. Our company works together as a team striving for the same goal. Respect isn't given it is earned. As for the company itself, I hope it stands out to other successful technological companies out there. PowerCloud always keep it 100.

Attitude in the Workplace

For a company to advance successfully, attitude in a workplace is a very important factor

When a workplace has positive employees it improves communications, there is better teamwork and higher productivity. When an office is full of employee's with a negative attitude teamwork between employees is dismantled and there is more stress and conflict upon the employee's. In many situations, when an employee is having trouble or a difficult time they are most likely dealing with personal problems. An important thing to remember about attitude is that an employee with a negative attitude can influence a person as much as an employee with a positive attitude. In order to have keep a positive attitude in the office it is important to let an employee know their hard work is appreciated. The workers will know you acknowledge what they do and there will be a change in the work environment. Negativity really affects a workplace because it sucks energy from the workers around you. Although you might not be in one of the best moods, you have to remember you're part of a big team and your attitude matters. The more positive you remain the more likely it is that positive things will happen.

Pasadena Trade Show

PowerCloud was eager to compete in the annual business competition hosted by Virtual Enterprise International at Pasadena, California. Prior to Pasadena, PowerCloud employees were hard at work trying to meet the deadlines for competition submissions. PowerCloud received a Bronze award in impact marketing, video commercial while getting an award in gold in the Company's Newsletter, and Gold in the global business challenge and the human resources competition. Lots of other company were doing great which cause PowerCloud employees to be nervous but we managed to surpass some of our competitors. The Pasadena trade show served as a learning experience that has helped establish a foundation of expectations for our competitive season. We expect to meet our goals throughout the many trade shows we still have to attend. PowerCloud has already started to prepare and improve for those trade shows that we will be attending. The more we were together, the more confident and supportive we were towards each other.

Trade Show MVP

Our Trade Show MVP Award goes to Bryan for having the most sales at The Pasadena Trade Show

Employee of the MONTH

Melanie Carranza
HR Associate

Melanie is an associate in the Human Resource department. Coming back from our trade show which took place in Pasadena this week, her department received an award for Human Resources. When Melanie was asked about the trade show's outcome she stated excitingly, "I'm so relieved that my hard work and long days after school have paid off, I can't wait to keep improving and bettering the company." We appreciate her hard work and can't wait to see what she brings next to PowerCloud.
