Lesson 23
Main and Subordinate Clauses

A main clause is a group of words that contains a complete subject and a complete predicate. Also known as an independent clause, a main clause can stand alone as a complete sentence.

Tyler read the morning paper. (main clause)

A subordinate clause also contains a subject and a predicate, but it cannot stand alone. Because it depends on a main clause to make sense, it is also known as a dependent clause. A subordinate clause usually begins with a subordinating conjunction.

While he ate his toast [subordinate clause], Tyler read the morning paper.

SUBORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS

Time: after, as, as soon as, before, since, until, when, whenever, while Place: where, wherever
Manner: as, as if, as though
Cause: a, because, inasmuch as, since, so that
Concession: although, even though, though
Condition: if, unless

A subordinate clause may also begin with a relative pronoun (such as who, whose, whom, which, that, or what). In some subordinate clauses, the connecting word also serves as the subject of the clause.

Exercise 1 Check (✔) the blank before each sentence that contains a subordinate clause.

✔ Louis Braille (1809–1852) lost his sight in an accident when he was three years old.

1. When he was fourteen, he invented today’s most common system of writing for the blind.

2. As an adult, he became a teacher of the blind.

3. In the Braille system, letters, numbers, and punctuation marks—even musical notes—are written in units called Braille “cells.”

4. Each cell contains between one and six raised dots.

5. Visually impaired people who have been taught Braille can read these raised dots with their fingertips.

6. Because sixty-three unique combinations of dots are possible, Braille is quite flexible.

7. Louis Braille determined that these raised dots can be interpreted much faster than raised lettering.
8. Even though it is more practical than raised lettering, the Braille system was not used widely until more than a century after its invention.

9. The six positions in a cell are arranged in two vertical columns of three positions each.

10. Each position in a cell is identified by a number.

11. For example, the number one position is the upper left-hand corner of the cell.

12. Immediately beneath it is the number two position.

13. When a single raised dot appears in the number one position, the cell represents the letter a.

14. When both the number one and number two positions contain dots, the cell represents the letter b.

15. Special signs are used to precede numbers and capital letters.

16. The number sign is a cell with dots in positions 3, 4, 5, and 6.

17. The first ten letters of the alphabet represent numerals if they are preceded by the number sign.

18. For example, a cell that would otherwise represent the letter a represents the Arabic numeral 1 if it is preceded by a number sign.

19. Similarly, whenever a cell with a single dot in position 6 appears, the reader knows that the next letter is a capital.

20. Braille can be written by manual or mechanical means.

21. A Braille writing machine is similar to a typewriter except that it has only six keys, one corresponding to each dot in the Braille cell.

22. An ordinary personal computer can convert printed material to Braille by using a special device that embosses dots on paper.

23. Another method of writing Braille involves using a slate and stylus to form raised dots on paper.

24. Although Braille provides visually impaired individuals with access to important information found in books, its usefulness doesn’t stop there.

25. Because writing is such an intrinsic part of everyday life, Braille’s most important role may be furnishing visually impaired people with a medium for letters, grocery lists, and phone messages.

Writing Link  Write a brief paragraph about the reading and writing you do in the course of an ordinary day. Use at least two subordinate clauses.
A simple sentence has one complete subject and one complete predicate. The subject, the predicate, or both may be compound.

They
Seeing Eye® dogs and other assistance dogs (compound subject)

<td>Most dogs</td>
<td>are pets provide pleasure andcompanionship. (compound predicate)</td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>give the gift of independence.</td>
</tr>

Two or more simple sentences, each considered a main clause, may be combined to form a compound sentence. Main clauses can be joined to build a compound sentence by using a comma followed by a conjunction, such as or, and, or but. However, a conjunction is not necessary to form a compound sentence. A semicolon may be used to join two main clauses without a conjunction. A semicolon is also used before a conjunctive adverb, such as however.

Laura can’t hear the alarm clock, and her dog wakes her.
Laura can’t hear the alarm clock; her dog wakes her.
Laura can’t hear the alarm clock; however, her dog wakes her.

Exercise 1 Write in the blank whether the sentence is simple or compound.

2. Someone in a wheelchair can’t reach a light switch, and a deaf person can’t hear a smoke alarm.
3. Dogs can help in many everyday situations.
4. Labrador retrievers open refrigerators, and Border collies nudge people awake.
5. Assistance dogs push elevator buttons and pick up telephones.
6. An assistance dog performs many duties, and these duties could change from one day to the next.
7. Some dogs go to work or school, and others help with child care or housework.
8. One dog might signal the whistle of a teakettle or the beep of a microwave oven.
9. Assistance dogs serve as eyes, ears, legs, or arms; they empower those they help.
Many breeds become assistance dogs, but a few seem particularly well suited to the role.

Labrador retrievers, golden retrievers, Welsh corgis, and Border collies generally respond well to training.

These dogs are eager to please; praise and affection are their primary rewards.

Assistance dogs face unfamiliar situations daily; thus, the single most important job qualification is a calm disposition.

A dog might have to navigate a crowded bus or a noisy restaurant.

Assistance dogs regularly encounter strangers; therefore, they should not be apprehensive.

Nervous and excitable dogs might become frightened, and their unexpected moves could prove dangerous.

Assistance dogs play another important role, and that is the part of social ice-breaker.

Disabled people sometimes feel “invisible,” but dogs make them very hard to ignore.

Children especially are attracted to dogs; thus, assistance dogs are often included in disability awareness programs.

The position of teacher can be added to the assistance dogs’ long list of jobs.

Exercise 2 Underline each main clause. If there is more than one main clause in a sentence, add a comma or a semicolon as needed.

Time was flying by, and the day of the wedding was fast approaching.

1. Both of the sofas arrived but neither fit through the doorway.
2. Green is Angie’s favorite color but her new coat is blue.
3. This is a great car and it gets good gas mileage.
